DETAILED ACTION

Specification

1. Applicant is reminded of the proper language and format for an abstract of the disclosure.

The abstract should be in narrative form and generally limited to a single paragraph on a separate sheet within the range of 50 to 150 words. It is important that the abstract not exceed 150 words in length since the space provided for the abstract on the computer tape used by the printer is limited. The form and legal phraseology often used in patent claims, such as "means" and "said," should be avoided. The abstract should describe the disclosure sufficiently to assist readers in deciding whether there is a need for consulting the full patent text for details.

The language should be clear and concise and should not repeat information given in the title. It should avoid using phrases which can be implied, such as, "The disclosure concerns," "The disclosure defined by this invention," "The disclosure describes," etc.

2. The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities:

Page 11, lines 25-26 are incorrect. Figure 1 shows 5 threads, not 4 as stated. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Objections

3. Claim 27 is objected to because of the following informalities:

The phrase "A-machine" should read --A machine--. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

5. Claims 1, 24, and 43 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Suzuki (6286294).

Art Unit: 3765

Suzuki teaches a twisting machine (Figure 1) comprising a spindle for passing thread(s) through (27) driven by a spindle driving motor, a rotor (25) associated with the spindle and in contact with the thread(s) taken out of the spindle, a winding drum (30) and bobbin (29), guide means (35), and a stationary carrier for carrying the bobbin and having means for independently moving the spindle and winding drum (Column 4, lines 16-22).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. Claims 2-23, 25-37, 39-42, and 44-48 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Suzuki (6286294).

Suzuki essentially teaches the invention as detailed above, but fails to specifically teach the myriad of ways to transfer power from a motor to a rotating shaft, all of which are well known in the art. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made, however, to have utilized any sort of known transfer means, such as belt, planetary gears, chains, etc, so as to provide power to rotate. The ordinarily skilled artisan understands that power must be transferred from a motor to a rotating shaft, and using any of the well known devices to accomplish this would be within his abilities without undue experimentation. In regards to sensors to tell when the bobbin is full, such are well known and utilized, and absolutely necessary to prevent damage to the twisting machine.

Art Unit: 3765

Conclusion

8. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Nessler et al (3834146), Landry et al (6209299), and Klein (2732681) all teach what is known in the art.
